Q.2 (A) Read the following passage and answer the question given below them.

06

Climate change has emerged as one of the most pressing global challenges of the 21st century. It refers to long-term shifts in temperatures and weather patterns, mainly caused by human activities such as burning fossil fuels, deforestation, and industrialization. These activities release large amounts of greenhouse gases into the atmosphere, leading to global warming. The consequences of climate change are already visible in the form of melting glaciers, rising sea levels, extreme weather events, and loss of biodiversity.

Scientists warn that if the current trend continues, millions of people may face food and water shortages, health risks, and displacement from their homes. Developing countries are particularly vulnerable because they often lack the resources to cope with climate-related disasters. At the same time, developed nations bear greater responsibility as they contribute the most to greenhouse gas emissions.

To address this issue, international cooperation is crucial. Agreements like the Paris Accord aim to limit global temperature rise by reducing emissions and promoting renewable energy. Individuals can also play a role by adopting sustainable lifestyles, such as conserving energy, reducing waste, and supporting eco-friendly policies. Ultimately, combating climate change requires joint efforts from governments, businesses, and citizens worldwide.

Questions:

- 1. What is meant by climate change?
- 2. Mention two main human activities responsible for climate change.
- 3. How does climate change affect developing countries more severely?
- 4. Name one international agreement aimed at addressing climate change.
